REDWOOD EMPIRE
FOOD BANK

2017-2018 IMPACT REPORT

FROM THE DESK OF DAVID GOODMAN

Your Chief Executive Officer

To say that 2017-2018 was a profound year for everyone in our community would be an understatement. Each of us was confronted with life's most profound questions: What does it mean to be alive. What does it mean to survive? What does it mean to heal?

As a hunger-relief organization, we don't have answers to these questions, but with your generous support, we do respond every day. Throughout the last year, we were called upon to distribute more food to more people than at any other time in our history. And, as it is whenever anyone finds themselves in need of help, the new arrivals never imagined that they would be in need of food assistance.

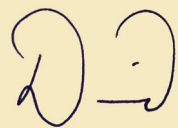

What has become clear through the series of disasters we have experienced – whether economic, man-made, or natural – is that a large safety net must be in place to support everyone who falls. The net needs to be finely woven to catch the most vulnerable child who is sent to school hungry, yet robust enough to meet the needs of tens of thousands of our neighbors who turned to us for help in the year following the Sonoma Complex Fire.

The Redwood Empire Food Bank has been doing this most important work for more than 30 years, yet it wasn't until this past year that we recognized how we have become integrated into the fabric of our community's safety net. With time and experience behind us, we now provide nourishing food to one person out of every six in our community, as well as to 170 community-based organizations. A net large enough and strong enough to catch so many people requires durable construction and consistent maintenance. It requires that everyone in our community hold it up – all the way around – with no gaps in support.

Of course, the net needs to be ready for the unexpected, which happens every day. People fall when they lose employment, suffer injury, battle illness, or endure the unimaginable, most recently wildfire and the federal shutdown. Because of you, our nutritional safety net was fortified and at the ready for our entire community. Without hesitation, the Redwood Empire Food Bank was able to catch our neighbors who fell as a result of these disasters.

From the perspective of the Redwood Empire Food Bank, we hope that fewer people find themselves in need of assistance this year. However, should we face new challenges, we remain poised and ready to act, and are grateful that you make our ability to help possible.

With gratitude,

David Goodman, C.E.O.

YOUR IMPACT, BY THE NUMBERS:

82,000 children, seniors, and adults served in Sonoma County.

Distributed a retail value of $40 MILLION worth of healthy groceries to our community.

Provided food for 15 MILLION MEALS through our own direct-service programs and partnerships with other local hunger-relief organizations.

9.1 MILLION POUNDS of fresh produce was offered through hunger-relief programs.

Distributed 3 MILLION MEALS through Station 3990 emergency distributions in the first 15 months following the 2017 wildfires.

28,000 CUSTOMERS accessed affordable groceries and food resources in our Value Market.

Served 4,250 seniors each month through Senior Basket and Diabetes Wellness program distributions in Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt, and Del Norte counties.

Kitchen Collective volunteers prepared 45,000 meals for low-income seniors and families.

8,500 VOLUNTEERS donated their time, doing the work of 45 full-time staff members.

FINANCIAL REPORT 2017-2018

FOR EVERY $1 DONATED, WE DISTRIBUTE $4 WORTH OF HEALTHY FOOD

How? The Redwood Empire Food Bank is able to stretch every dollar donated thanks to the incredible amount of donated food we receive throughout the year, the efforts of remarkable volunteers who generously donate their time, and our ability to purchase food in bulk for a fraction of the retail cost.

EVERY CHILD, EVERY DAY

Under the Every Child, Every Day Initiative, the Redwood Empire Food Bank operates three robust programs specifically designed to end childhood hunger and fuel growing bodies and active minds. Addressing the nutritional needs of children of all ages and targeting seasonal meal gaps, the Redwood Empire Food Bank provides local families the bounty of fresh produce, nourishing groceries, and healthy meals that their children need to grow up healthy and strong, and stay engaged in school and play activities. Food is conveniently distributed on school campuses in high-need neighborhoods, and through afterschool and summer programs, at community parks, and at low-income apartment complexes to ensure children and their families have access to essential nutrients throughout the year.

“ The hard choices I used to make when I was on my own - groceries or gas, food or medicine - they are impossible now that I am a mom. I can't choose between food or rent. There is no one or the other. I can't lose my child's housing or let my child go hungry. The Redwood Empire Food Bank makes it so that I don't have to choose. ”

- ANGELA, SANTA ROSA PARENT

SENIOR SECURITY

Too many seniors in our community are living on low-fixed-incomes, making unthinkable choices about how to stretch limited budgets, often sacrificing food in order to pay for rising health care and housing costs. The Redwood Empire Food Bank’s two Senior Security programs, Senior Basket and Diabetes Wellness, ensure that a monthly average of 4,250 low-income seniors living in Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt, and Del Norte counties have access to a consistent source of healthy, fresh food every month of the year – food that supports vitality and independence. Reaching thousands more through our network of partner organizations located throughout our service region, our Senior Security Initiative meets the critical needs of our community’s most vulnerable elders.

40 Diabetes Wellness sites served 250 low-income seniors living with pre- and type 2 diabetes each month.

85 Senior Basket sites served 4,000 low-income seniors each month in Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt, and Del Norte counties.

1.6 MILLION MEALS were provided to seniors at risk of hunger through Senior Security programs last year.

“ I was hesitant to call the food bank at first because I always imagined the services were for those facing harder circumstances. I put it off for so long, it got to the point where my savings were depleted. I was caring for my three grandchildren while my daughter struggled to find work, and couldn’t afford groceries. I really didn’t think I’d ever receive the help I needed. But the food bank changed everything. ”

NEIGHBORHOOD HUNGER NETWORK

Through six wide-reaching hunger-relief programs, including vital partnerships with 170 local human service organizations, the Redwood Empire Food Bank operates a vast emergency food system in Sonoma County and throughout our broader service region. With such a robust network of support, we are able to remove many of the barriers our neighbors face in seeking help and weave a strong nutritional safety net, one that is large enough to support our entire community. Last year, the Redwood Empire Food Bank met an increased need for food assistance as the result of the 2017 and 2018 wildfires, expanding programs within our Neighborhood Hunger Network, like Produce Pantry and Groceries to Go, to ensure that healthy food continues to be available and accessible to everyone in need, whenever the need exists.

“ We lived in Sonoma County for many years and decided to retire in Lake County. We thought the social security would stretch a bit further here. I’m a simple guy. I don’t need much. But we still don’t have enough to cover our basic needs. The food distributions offered here help so much. ”

-TOM, A CLEARLAKE SENIOR

30+ varieties of fruits and vegetables were distributed through Produce Pantry sites.

7,000 individuals received healthy food through Groceries to Go distributions.

215 households received CalFresh benefits with the help our Food Connections team.

KITCHEN COLLECTIVE

“ For us old folks, standing for long stretches of time to prepare an elaborate meal isn’t really an option. I also struggle to afford the quality and quantity of ingredients needed to prepare the types of meals we receive from the food bank. The Kitchen Collective meals are so special - so tasty and filling and I love the options, everything from curries to pupusas, and stroganoff to succotash. ”

- MARIE, A CLOVERDALE SENIOR

Chef Don Nolan and his growing team of volunteer sous chef in the Redwood Empire Food Bank’s Kitchen Collective program prepared nearly 4,000 entrées each month of our last fiscal year, providing more than 600 low-income seniors and 250 low-income families healthy homemade meals. As the program continues to grow, so too does the menu. Last year, with donations of seasonally-sourced produce from our friends at Kendall-Jackson in Santa Rosa, Bernier Farm in Geyserville, Front Porch Farm, Foggy River Farm, and Noci Sonoma, all in Healdsburg, and Shone Farm in Forestville, our Kitchen Collective crew lovingly prepared entrées that highlighted the astounding bounty and agricultural diversity of our region, and bolstered nutrition for our neighbors. Using broccolini, turnips, fennel, and tomatoes from Kendall-Jackson, for example, Chef Don crafted a recipe for scalloped sweet potatoes that featured fresh flavors. Utilizing a generous donation of butternut squash from our friends at Amy’s Kitchen, our volunteer team rolled fresh squash pasta, which was layered with sliced zucchini, Point Reyes Farmstead mozzarella, homemade marinara sauce, and protein-packed chickpea “meatballs” for a hearty vegetarian lasagna. And, when offered freshly gleaned Shone Farm chard and kale by our friends at Healdsburg’s Farm to Pantry, Chef and the team prepared a Caribbean caliloo soup, rich in calcium and vitamins C, B, and A. The Kitchen Collective thrived last year with the support of this network of local food donors and the generosity of dedicated volunteers, and continues to offer local seniors and families in need nutritious entrées and relief from the stress of meal preparation.

SCHOOL PANTRY

“ We’ve struggled in the last year to get back on our feet after we lost our rental in the fire. The cost of moving set us back, and now our rent is significantly higher. We’ll catch up soon, but in the meantime, this service allows us to continue to provide for our children, giving them the food they need to grow up strong, and have a sense of normalcy during what is still a very challenging time. ”

- ANNA, A GUERNEVILLE PARENT WHO ACCESSES FRESH PRODUCE AND HEALTHY GROCERIES THROUGH SCHOOL PANTRY

At the close of the 2018 spring semester, the Redwood Empire Food Bank’s School Pantry program was distributing fresh produce and healthy groceries to an average of 1,600 children and their families each week of the academic year. Recognizing the immense impact of the program on the lives of low-income families with children, our staff worked tirelessly over the summer months to locate new school sites where the program could reach more children and their families, and close existing meal gaps. And, we were successful. So far this academic year, School Pantry has launched new program locations on three high-need Santa Rosa campuses: JX Wilson Elementary, Wright Charter, and for the first time on a high school campus, Elsie Allen. With 15 locations now operating in Sonoma County and one location operating in Lake County, School Pantry is alleviating childhood hunger, nourishing entire families, and helping to grow a healthier, more resilient community.

PRODUCE PANTRY

“ We try to visit a Produce Pantry site every Thursday. We have two boys who love pretty much every vegetable imaginable. We appreciate the food a lot, especially the fruits and vegetables. There are also great snacks. It helps not only feed our kids, but keep them healthy as they grow up. ”

- EURIPIDES, PETALUMA PARENT

The Redwood Empire Food Bank’s Produce Pantry program provides low-income families, adults, and seniors weekly access to a bounty of healthy foods, including a variety of seasonal fresh fruits and vegetables, and nutrient-dense supplemental groceries, essential to the wellbeing of our community. One of our largest programs, Produce Pantry operates more than 30 sites strategically located in high-need neighborhoods throughout our region, eliminating many of the barriers our food insecure neighbors face in accessing help.

As our community began the process of healing and rebuilding from the devastating fires in Sonoma, Lake, and Mendocino counties over the last year, the Redwood Empire Food Bank transitioned our network of Station 3990 emergency food distributions, serving all those impacted by the disasters, into Produce Pantry locations. These program sites will continue to meet the ongoing need for assistance in areas heavily impacted by the fires, while expanding access to everyone facing hunger. By the end of last year, Produce Pantries had provided 2.75 million meals to an average of 3,000 people each week, a number we anticipate growing as we continue to identify pockets of need and launch new program locations, reaching more of our neighbors.
